The problem, and the answer

What goes wrong today, and what changes.

Each problem sits beside what Martreza does about it, grouped by the level that solves it.

Today	With Martreza
In both levels
A batch expires unseen. You find it on the shelf, or when a customer asks, and the money is lost.	Every batch is saved with its expiry date. The first to expire sells first, and you are warned 90, 30 and 7 days ahead.
The narcotic and psychotropic register, the bin card and the temperature log are written by hand, and hunted for when the inspector comes.	Selling a narcotic or psychotropic medicine fills its register by itself. The bin card and the temperature log are ready to print.
The cash handed over doesn't match the sales, and nobody knows where the difference went.	The cashier counts the cash before seeing what Martreza expects. Any gap shows at once, in birr, for that shift.
Who took what on credit, what you owe each supplier and when their prices rose are kept in notebooks.	Credit customers and their pay-by dates, what you owe each supplier, and every price change, in one place.
The customer waits while one person finds the medicine, writes the sale and takes the money.	Pharmacists prepare sales on a tablet or phone, and the cashier takes them in turn from one queue. It works just as well if you sell alone.
A customer shows a screenshot of a transfer, and nobody knows whether the money arrived.	Payment Check confirms the money arrived (optional, with a small fee per payment).
Counting stock means closing the shop, and a missing box is never explained.	Count while the shop is open, with our officers or your own team. Every difference is listed with its value.
You only know how the day went when you are in the pharmacy.	Today's sales, the till and the medicine about to expire are on your phone, wherever you are.
Connected adds · In about a month
You order by phone and on paper, then copy every delivery into your records by hand.	Order from your wholesalers in Martreza. The delivery comes in with its batch, expiry and invoice, ready to check.
When you run short, the customer walks to the next pharmacy.	Borrow from a partner pharmacy, or swap. Both pharmacies' stock, and what is owed, update by themselves.
Slow stock sits on your shelf until it expires, while another pharmacy could sell it.	Place it with a partner pharmacy on consignment. They pay only for what sells, and Martreza counts it on both sides.
Every deal between two shops means two sets of paper that never quite match.	One record for both sides: stock leaves one shop and enters the other, and the invoice is made for you.

You

See it all on phone, tablet or computer, anywhere

One Martreza, on all three devices

A tablet by the shelf, a computer at the till, your phone at home: the same Martreza, the same data, at once. Nothing to install.

Each person sees only what their role allows. Only approved staff can give out narcotic and psychotropic medicines.

Level 1 Basic We recommend 1,800 birr a month

The journey of one carton

From the supplier's truck to the customer's hand, every pack is known by its batch and expiry date.

01 When stock arrives

When the supplier delivers, each line is saved with its batch number and expiry date. Cartons are split into single packs, and you set the selling price right there. Our product list already has over 8,000 products, so you rarely create one by hand. You just pick it.

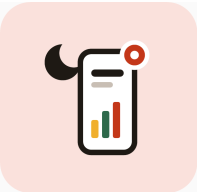

02 Store and shelf

Stock in the store and in the shop is kept apart. When it moves to the shelf, and when it is sold, the batch that expires first goes first. An expired batch cannot be sold.

03 At the counter

On a computer, tablet or phone, sell with a barcode scanner, the phone camera, or by searching the name. A narcotic or psychotropic medicine asks for its prescription. The receipt prints with its number, your tax number (TIN) and VAT.

04 In your hands

In the evening, the sales, the till, credit and the medicine about to expire are waiting for you on your phone, tablet or computer.

Also in this level

The records an inspector asks for

Narcotic and psychotropic register and forms, bin card, temperature and humidity log, all ready to print.

A warning before it expires

Lists of medicine expiring in 7, 30 and 90 days. Damaged stock is set aside, and throwing it away is recorded.

Till and shifts

Each shift closes with a count. Cash in and out is recorded, and any gap at the till shows in birr.

Credit and suppliers

Sell on credit to customers you know. See what you owe each supplier, and when to pay.

Staff and roles

Each person has their own account and role. Who did what is saved by name.

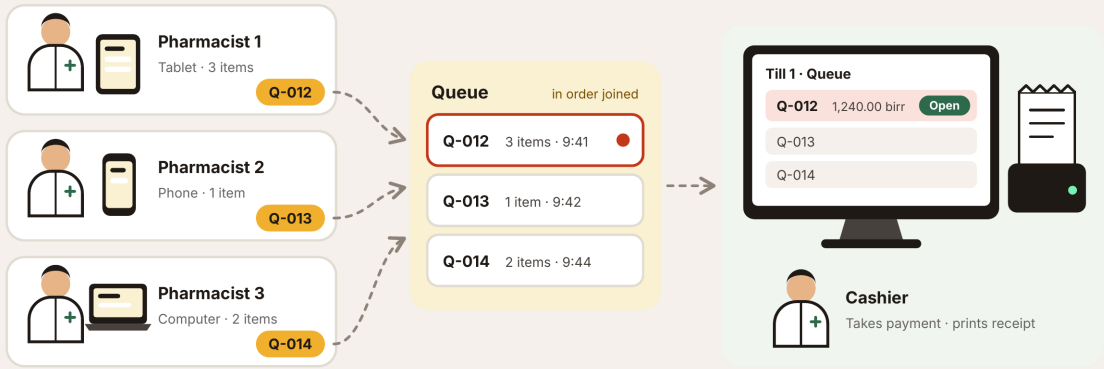

Reports

Sales by day, product and person, margin (price minus cost), lost stock and price history, as PDF and as CSV that opens in Excel.

Part of Basic, so in both levels

Many pharmacists. One queue.

For bigger shops with several pharmacists and cashiers. At busy times, each pharmacist serves a customer at the shelf, prepares the sale and sends it to the queue. The cashier takes payment in order. Customers wait less, no sale is forgotten, and nothing is entered twice.

Selling on your own?

Martreza works just as well for a lone owner: scan, take payment and print the receipt on one screen. No queue, and nothing to switch on.

01

The pharmacist prepares the sale

On a tablet, phone or computer, they scan or search for the medicine. The batch that expires first is picked for them.

02

They send it to the queue

The sale gets a queue number (for example Q-014). The customer takes it to the cashier, and the pharmacist serves the next person.

03

The cashier takes it in turn

The queue appears on the cashier's screen by itself, in the order sales joined, with no need to reload the page. One tap opens it, payment is taken, the receipt prints.

04

The shift closes properly

At closing, any sale still in the queue must be finished or removed, and who removed it is saved with its queue number.

Options you can switch on

One setting turns them on. If you leave it off, the queue stays simple.

Send to a chosen till

If you have several tills, send the sale to one of them, or to any till.

Keep for later

A sale paid later holds its stock, so those packs can't be sold to someone else.

How it will be paid

Note in advance whether the customer pays in cash, by card, by bank or with mobile money.

You know who did what: the queue shows who prepared each sale, the receipt shows the cashier, and the sales report shows each person. With several tills, each cashier counts and closes their own shift.

Level 2 Connected + all of Basic · In about a month · 2,790 birr a month

One pharmacy, linked.

Connected links your pharmacy with your wholesalers and with other pharmacies. It arrives in about a month. Until then, start on Basic: moving up is one step, and all your data comes with you.

The Martreza Hub is free. Connected makes it automatic.

On the Hub, pharmacies and wholesalers find each other, place orders, and agree on consignment, swaps and loans. It is free for everyone. With Connected, Martreza does the paperwork on both sides for you.

	On the free Hub	With Connected
Orders and deliveries	Sent and agreed on the Hub	Made from your Martreza stock, and the delivery goes straight into it
Stock on both sides	Each side updates its own stock by hand	Leaves one shop and enters the other, by itself

Part of Connected · In about a month

Order. Receive. Lend. Swap.

Two kinds of partner, one record. Your wholesalers send what you order. Other pharmacies share stock with you when one of you has too much and the other too little.

Wholesalers: order and receive

01

Order

Make the order in Martreza and send it to the wholesaler you choose.

02

They confirm

The wholesaler says what they can send, and at what price.

03

It arrives filled in

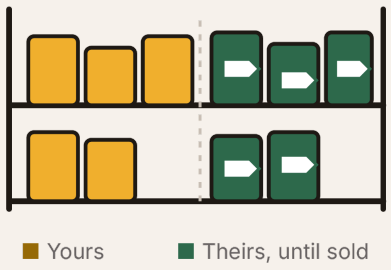

The delivery note has batch and expiry on every line, ready to check.

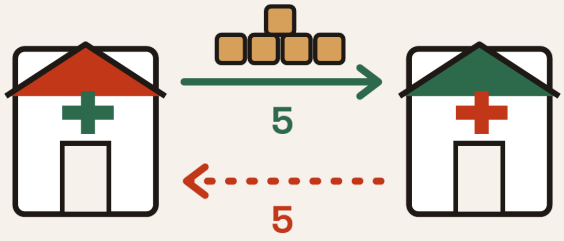

04

Check and accept

Your stock and what you owe update together. On their side, the stock goes down and the invoice is made.

Other pharmacies: consignment, swaps and loans

Consignment

Place slow stock on a partner's shelf, or take theirs. It stays the owner's until sold. Pay only for what sells, and return the rest.

Swaps

Trade a medicine you have too much of for one you need, at a value you both agree.

Loans

Run out? Borrow from a partner and give back the same medicine later, or settle in money. You can lend, too.

Your agreement sets: The price or value · Who bears expiry and damage · How often you settle · The return date

Both sides, one record. When both pharmacies are on Connected, each move leaves one stock and enters the other, the papers travel between you, and each side accepts them. A partner who is only on the free Hub keeps their side by hand.

Getting paid

Payments you can trust, on both levels.

Payment Check comes with both levels, and you use it only if you want to. A fiscal machine is agreed with you.

Both levels Payment Check Available now Optional · no monthly fee

When a customer pays with mobile money or by bank transfer, Martreza checks, through the payment partner you choose, that the money arrived. The cashier doesn't need to look at the customer's phone.

Fake screenshots don't count

"I sent it" is not enough. Only money that arrived counts.

Payments match the sales

The day's bank and mobile money payments are shown beside the shift report.

Only if you want it

Without it, you record payments as you do today. To use it, pick one of our payment partners. Each payment carries one small fee, shown before you choose and taken with the payment. Nothing is added to your monthly bill.

Fiscal machine

By agreement

Martreza also works with fiscal machines. You buy the machine from one of our partners, and we connect it to Martreza. Every shop is different, so we agree the details and the price with you.

2. Buy the machine from a partner

Our officers, at your pharmacy

We count it, so you can trust it.

Count yourselves: free

Count with the same system our officers use, on both levels, at no charge.

Our officers: a one-time fee

Per branch, by the units you hold, the same on both levels. Part of it is paid on the day of the count (page 10).

The fee for a count by our officers, by units in the branch

Up to 5,000 units	5,001 to 10,000 units	10,001 to 20,000 units	20,001 to 35,000 units	Over 35,000 units
5,000 birr	8,000 birr	11,000 birr	14,500 birr	Quoted after a free visit

Paid once, for onboarding, and again for each scheduled count by our officers (page 11). How and when to pay: page 10. A unit is one thing you sell, counted on the shelf and in the store together: a strip, a bottle, a box. Something you weigh or measure counts once per container.

Paying for onboarding and counts

A fair part first. The rest, soon.

Smaller counts are paid in full on the day. Bigger ones pay 40% on the day and the rest in a few parts, never over more than 8 months. Scheduled counts by our officers are priced and paid the same way.

Units in the branch	At once	40% on the day, then 3 months +6%	40% on the day, then 6 months +9%	40% on the day, then 8 months +11%
Up to 5,000 units	5,000 on the day of the count	Paid in full on the day of the count.
5,001 to 10,000 units	8,000 on the day of the count	Paid in full on the day of the count.
10,001 to 20,000 units	11,000 on the day of the count	4,400 + 2,340 × 3 11,420 in all	4,400 + 1,200 × 6 11,600 in all	4,400 + 920 × 8 11,760 in all
20,001 to 35,000 units	14,500 on the day of the count	5,800 + 3,080 × 3 15,040 in all	Not offered. At once, or over 3 months.
Over 35,000 units	We come for a free visit, see how much you hold, and quote the fee and the ways to pay.

In birr, for one branch. “4,400 + 920 × 8” means 4,400 on the day of the count, then 920 on each of your next 8 monthly bills.

Month 9 on

Why parts cost a little more

Prices in Ethiopia rise month by month. The small charge keeps the fee worth the same while you pay. Each part is rounded up to 10 birr.

On the same bill

Each part is added to your monthly bill, so you still make one payment a month, by bank transfer as usual.

If you leave

If you leave Martreza before the fee is paid, what is left comes with your last bill. Once agreed, your parts never change.

Scheduled counts, on both levels

Count again, without closing.

After onboarding, stock is counted again on a schedule you choose. Each count shows what is missing, what was found, and what it is worth.

Closed-shop count

Close for a few hours and count everything at once. The quickest way to one exact number.

Count while open

Keep selling. Martreza follows every sale, delivery and move while each shelf is counted, so the result is still exact. No lost day of sales, no counting at night.

Who counts

Our officers

They come on the agreed dates and count with Martreza. Each count costs the same as onboarding, by the units counted (page 9); counting part of the shop is priced by the units it covers.

Level	3 months · −3%	6 months · −5%	12 months · −8%
Basic normal price, no discount	5,400	10,800	21,600
Connected once it is live	8,119	15,903	30,802

The total paid in advance for the whole period, in birr, for one branch. For example, paying for Connected for 12 months saves you 2,678 birr, and your price is fixed for all 12 months. Account setup is free (page 16). Onboarding by our officers: page 9. The discount is for Connected. Basic pays its normal price ahead, and its price is fixed for that time. A fiscal machine is agreed with you (page 8).

How Martreza can pay for itself

500,000 × 2% = 10,000 > 1,800

If you buy about 500,000 birr of medicine a month and throw away just 2% less expired medicine, you save 10,000 birr a month. That is more than five times the price of Basic.

Studies in Ethiopia show that medicine thrown away because it expired or was damaged is 3% to 8% of stock value.

Training day

Trained, then selling

Each person learns their job, and you start selling the same day. Your first month and your 30-day money-back guarantee start here.

First month

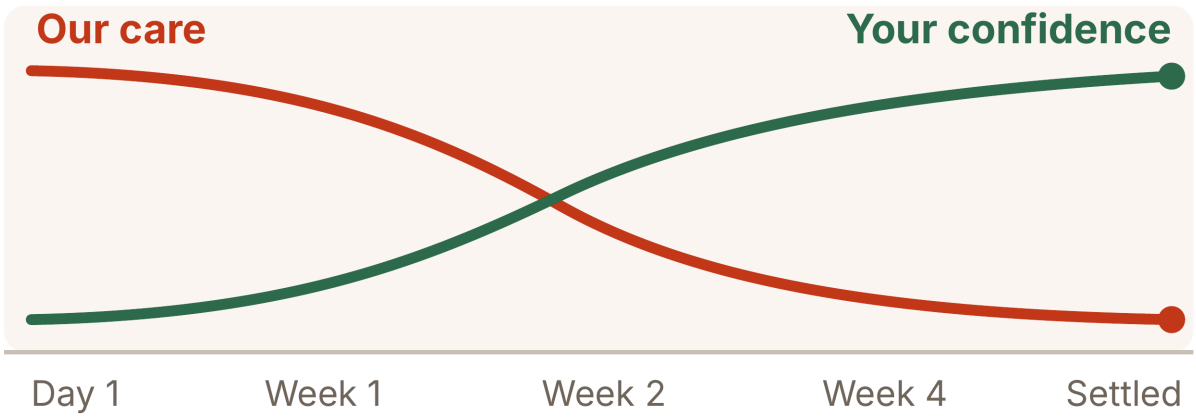

Settling in

We stay close until your shop runs steady (page 18).

Settling in

Close at first. Lighter as you settle.

Every shop gets the care it needs: a lot in the first days, less as it settles. We are always one call away.

How we stay close

At first
We are with you in person and on the phone while your team finds its feet.

As you settle
We check in, and fix whatever slows you down.

Once you are settled
You call when you need us, and we still check in from time to time.

Signs your shop is settled

- ✓ Every sale goes through Martreza.
- ✓ Deliveries go in with batch and expiry.
- ✓ The till closes without a gap.
- ✓ Moves between store and shelf are recorded.
- ✓ Credit customers and supplier bills are in.
- ✓ Your team works without calling us.

Day 30: we look at it together

We go through your numbers with you and fix anything that needs fixing. If Martreza is not for you, this is the last day to ask for your first month back.

What you need

The equipment you need

Martreza works in a web browser. There is nothing to install and no special server. The phone, tablet and computer you already have are usually enough. Hardware is not part of the monthly price; if you like, we can suggest models and sellers.

A computer, tablet or phone For selling and the till. Anything with a web browser works	One for each counter
A barcode scanner (optional) A phone camera reads barcodes too	One for each counter
A receipt printer (optional) An 80 mm receipt printer	One for each counter
Internet Martreza needs the internet to sell	One line, with mobile data as a spare

What Martreza does not do

To be clear, these are outside what we offer:

Selling without internet
When the internet is down, you cannot sell. Keep mobile data as a spare.

Health insurance claims
It does not handle insurance claims or payments.

Sending reports to the health authority
The records and forms are ready, but you submit them to the authority yourself.

An accountant's work
It does not replace your accountant, but it gives your accountant the reports as PDF and CSV.

Ordering from suppliers, on Basic
On Basic, you record deliveries when they arrive. Ordering and receiving through Martreza comes with Connected, in about a month.

Selling or repairing hardware
We don't sell or repair equipment, but we help you choose.

The main terms

The terms in short

Money and tax

Prices are in Ethiopian birr. No VAT is added. Even after we register for VAT, the price you pay stays the same.

What the price covers

One branch, with no limit on staff accounts. Run all your branches from one account; each branch is priced on its own.

How often you pay

Monthly: at the start of each month. 3, 6 or 12 months: the whole period in advance, at a price fixed for all of it. Once a new price is announced, months after it starts are paid at the new price.

How you pay

Within 7 days of getting the bill, by bank transfer. The bank account number is on the bill.

Price changes

Only on 1 Meskerem, 1 Tahsas, 1 Megabit or 1 Sene, and never sooner than 3 months after we tell you (by SMS, email and in Martreza) or after you join, whichever is later. If you do not accept a new price, you can leave before it starts.

Changing level

Moving up starts straight away; moving down starts on your next payment date.

Money-back guarantee

Ask within 30 days of the day you start selling, and we refund the subscription for your first month. Counts by our officers are not refunded: the count is done, and it stays yours.

Counts by our officers

Up to 10,000 units: paid in full on the day of the count. 10,001 to 20,000: 40% on the day, the rest over up to 8 months. 20,001 to 35,000: at once, or 40% on the day and the rest over 3 months.

Ending the agreement

Either side can end it with 30 days' written notice, and we hand you all your data.

Your data

Your data is yours. We keep it private, and we never give it or sell it to anyone.

Next step

Three simple steps to start

1

Sign up, or call us

Sign up in Martreza, call 0985 692 561 or +251 921 235 048, or write to info@triviumsystems.dev.

2

Your officer calls

Usually the same day, if you sign up in working hours. Together you book your first visit.

3

Trained, then selling

Your team learns its own job, and you start selling the same day (page 17).

Want to see Martreza working before you decide? Call us and we'll come to your pharmacy to show you.
